

22 January 2014

Addendum to USARAK Regulation 350-2, Range Safety
Change 3 pertaining to Paragraph 3-4. Schedule Priorities
Changed to read:

USARAK Scheduling Priorities:

1. CRTC when testing and conducting test support. The Commander, USARAK, will be the approval authority for test support occurring within 48 hours of a RED FLAG – Alaska launch and within 24 hours for other scheduled activities. In no case will preemption of other activities occur unless there is at least three hours prior notification.
2. Major ALCOM or Joint Task Force Alaska (JTF-AK) Exercises (i.e. NORTHERN EDGE, ARCTIC EDGE)
3. Major Force Service Sponsored Exercises (i.e. RED FLAG-Alaska)
4. Deploying Units, i.e. units w/in 180 days of Last Arrival Date ISO Contingency Operations.
5. Service/Higher Headquarters directed inspections (EDRE, RI, CUI)
6. Service-sponsored (to include National Guard and Reserve Components) visiting units (Distant Frontier, local service training)

*Deploying units will schedule training outside major force joint/flying exercise windows to the max extent possible. In the event that is not possible, the USARAK G3, in coordination with the 354 OG/ALCOM-J7 (e.g. O6 level coord with major force exercise proponents), will be the resolution authority taking into account size/scope of pre-deployment training as compared with that of the conflicting exercise.

 Red Flag-Alaska is a JNTC-accredited joint and coalition major flying exercise, generally running for 10 flying days, but authorized for up to 15 flying days, not to exceed a total of 60 days per calendar year. During the exercises, a flying day may consist of two flying periods lasting up to 4 hours or one 5.5 hour period. Exceptions from these norms will be approved in advance by the USARAK G-3.

Visiting units conducting routine training will be given priority over local units commensurate with the type of training and length of stay (i.e. if staying in Alaska for a longer period of time, priority becomes more equal with local units). This is solely based on limited opportunity to train in the Alaska ranges. Intent for this prioritization is for scheduling conflicts between visiting and local units to be worked out at the lowest level and, when applicable, to train jointly.

*By order of the USARAK G/3/5/7 and effective 22 January 2014, this change supersedes paragraph 3-4 Schedule Priorities as written in all previously published editions of USARAK Regulation 350-2.

POC for this action is the USARAK Installation Range Officer at 384-1723.
